A REFORMED FOURTH OF JULY.

There is a general movement throughout the country for a radical reform in our present dangerous method of celebrating Independence day—and that such a movement is absolutely demanded for the protection of life and property is abundantly shown by our annual doomsday statistics. Take the figures for last year, for instance:

Number killed in 4th of July accidents, 1903, ..... 467
Number injured, ..... 3,967
Deaths from Tetanus, following blank cartridge wounds, ..... 407
Causes of Non-fatal Accidents.
Blank cartridges, ..... 1,309
Firecrackers, ..... 1,152
Toy cannons, ..... 397
Powder and fireworks, ..... 731
Unaccounted for, ..... 378
Grand total killed and injured, 4,434
Fire loss, ..... $250,155

Those figures are startling. There was not an engagement during the Spanish war that showed losses on our side at all comparable to these. The losses admitted by the Japanese in the most desperate battle of the present war amount to less than three fourths as much.

What a reflection upon our good sense as a people that we cannot celebrate the signing of the declaration of Independence without sacrificing more lives than were lost in any battle of the long war by which the declaration was made to stand. Is it any wonder that public sentiment is turning to the matter of reform, and that the people everywhere are making up their minds that this reckless use of dangerous elements must be stopped.

There is no disposition anywhere, so far as we have observed, to deprive the small boy of his firecrackers, torpedoes and other harmless explosives, but the dangerous things must go, and their sale as well as their use is being forbidden by city ordinances to which severe penalties are attached. The Chicago Inter-Ocean says:

"The fact is no reasonable person desires that the small boy be deprived of his right to celebrate the Fourth in his individual capacity. To expect that he would fold his arms and await the coming of a night exhibition would be as insane as to permit his present method of observing the greatest of our holidays to continue. The same thing to do is to allow the small boy all the latitude consistent with public safety and comfort. He should not be deprived of firecrackers, torpedoes, or fireworks that are known to be harmless. There is no confusion in the minds of the public or the police as to this matter. Every intelligent father and mother knows by this time where the danger lies. Let this danger be eliminated, and there can be no serious objection to the small boy's Fourth of July."

We call the attention of the city council to this subject. It is a matter of importance.—Albuquerque Journal.

"Teddie" Higgins is a Hero.
"Teddie" Higgins, the big dog that lies around in the way and takes up a lot of room, and is apparently no account, proved himself a hero Thursday. A big black cur jumped a little white lap-dog in the afternoon in front of the postoffice, when "Teddie" came to the rescue. He grabbed the big cur by the back of the neck and saved the little dog a thrashing. Marshal Rascoe was on hand and separated the fighters, but he did not arrest Teddie, as he thought the attack justifiable.

They are from Marshall, Texas, and Mr. Waskom has recently purchased land near Dexter and Mr. Sawyer bought near the Winston place. W. E. Hood, their brother, will also spend some time in the Valley and will likely locate in the city.

Obituary—S. B. Easley.

The remains of Sidney B. Easley were shipped to his relatives and friends at Marlin, Texas, this afternoon. He had lived at Roswell only a year or two, but had more warm personal friends than usually gather around one in so short a time.

Sid Easley had many qualities that draw and make steadfast friends. He was generous—he was open-hearted. There was nothing small or mean about him. He was big minded. He looked out upon the whole world, and took in the whole panorama of life. For all that was noble in the best sense of the word he had the profoundest admiration, and expressed it. For the weaknesses of human nature he had nothing but forgiveness. There was no malice in his make-up. No one could know him well, and not love him. Faults he had to be sure, but faults—who is free from faults? Since the Saviour of the world died upon Calvary none have been without them. Yet Sid Easley's faults were fewer than fall to the common lot of men.

If he had one great fault—his own worst enemy—almost his only fault so far as those who looked upon him could see, let it pass. He knowingly harmed no living creature, and loved the whole world. If he loved his neighbors better than himself, who is there to say that such want of worldly thrift will be recorded against him in the great Judgment-Book?

Sid Easley was an honest man, he was a just man. The milk of human kindness was rich in his blood.

The writer knew him well in Texas. At that time he was a leading lawyer. He was prominent in political and social life. Friends and admirers clustered about him. He was district attorney for many years in the Uvalde district, and was regarded as one of the ablest prosecutors in the state. Honest, fearless and a fine lawyer, he was an ideal public prosecutor; yet just and generous ever, with him "mercy always seasoned justice." Frequently he was favorably mentioned for congress, and but for his one great weakness there was nothing in the gift of the people to which he might not have aspired and attained.

He came to Roswell—as many come—for a new field of endeavor. At once he took high rank among the lawyers of the Pecos Valley. Respected—esteemed—by the entire bar and respected and admired by the general public, he was rapidly forging to the front as a leader and ornament of the New Mexico bar. But his health failed. Physicians advised him to quit his practice for a time and take a rest—to go to the mountains for a change. A few days ago he left with a few friends for the Gaudalope mountains, to fish and hunt. To the surprise of all the altitude proved too great for him, and he died suddenly of heart failure.

He was brought to Roswell at once, a committee of the bar took charge of the remains, and at the request of his relatives and friends steps were at once taken to ship his body back to Texas. At the opening of the next term of the district court further appropriate steps will be taken by the bar and the court in honor of his memory.

S. B. Easley, requiescat in pace! Your friends could be numbered only as the sands upon the seashore. You left no enemies. May God be with you.
W. W. G.

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. "It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion." All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, putting it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.
Mr. D. H. Smith, of Nevada, O. says: "I had stomach trouble and was in a bad state as I had heart trouble with it. I took Kidney Pills and in about four months it cured me."

Triumphs of Modern Surgery.

Wonderful things are done for the human body by surgery. Organs are taken out and scraped and polished and put back, or they may be removed entirely; bones are spliced; pipes take the place of diseased sections of veins; antiseptic dressings are applied to wounds, bruises, burns and like injuries before inflammation sets in, which causes them to heal without maturation and in one-third the time required by the old treatment. Chamberlain's Pain Balm acts on this same principle. It is an antiseptic and when applied to such injuries, causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and soreness. Keep a bottle of Pain Balm in your home and it will save you time and money, not to mention the inconvenience and suffering which such injuries entail. For sale by all druggists.
